

Dear diversophy.com Visitor

We are pleased to announce that diversophy[®], in collaboration with Campus 3D, has gone virtual! We invite you to be part of a journey promoting real intercultural communication and understanding among peoples in everyday reality via online tools.

Our new Campus 3D diversophy[®] Learning Space in Second Life, an immersive virtual world, is ready for you to explore on your own or with your colleagues and trainees. The site features:

- 30 diversophy[®] game quizzes, which you can use in conjunction with your intercultural training sessions.
- A certified learning curriculum for those wishing to enhance their cultural competence.
- Real time meeting spaces in which to do presentations, training, and other learning experiences, or simply hold coaching sessions.

In all, it is a great platform for individual learning as well as your training sessions and virtual meetings, allowing you to communicate in real time (voice over IP) with people across the globe and set up meetings with people from other cultures.

With a headset, a broadband internet connection, and a PC with Second Life (SL) installed, learners become part of a virtual classroom.

Here you can be safely curious – you will also have the opportunity to learn from other leading specialists in the field by attending virtual discussions and presentations offered on specific days.

In Second Life you can interact with like-minded and differently-minded people by communicating in real time (voice over or chat). You can join our Campus 3D Group to share your intercultural experiences with others and meet people from other parts of the world for intercultural exchange. For full information, please see www.campus3d.com.

In addition to its new virtual presence, diversophy[®] continues to offer you over 50 culture specific and skill-building training room card games and instruments, and can furnish you with on-site training and coaching led by expert senior professionals from our worldwide network. See our full range of offerings at: www.diversophy.com.

Please get in touch with us if you would like to find out more.

Happy surfing!
